OUR UNIQUE VENUE

In 1975 the National Railway Museum was opened on Leeman Road in York. The huge former steam locomotive depot was an ideal site for a National Railway Museum. Following its conversion and opening as the very first national museum outside London, it was an immediate success with the public.

Today the National Railway Museum is one of Britain's busiest museums and is perhaps the most popular railway museum in the world...

Choose from a variety of inspiring spaces to bring your event vision to life. With a dedicated Event team to help with all stages of your next event.

OUR MASTERPLAN BECOMING THE WORLD'S RAILWAY MUSEUM

Our Masterplan will transform the National Railway Museum in York and Locomotion in Shildon. We're on a journey to become a global engineering powerhouse and a reinvented, inspiring, 21st-century attraction.

With this investment, our transformed museums will showcase the cutting-edge innovations shaping our world today, alongside the extraordinary birth and growth of the railways.

By celebrating the past, present and future of railways and engineering, we will capture the hearts and minds of the next generation of engineers, innovators and thinkers.
